hey karen,
one volley back. i added some timelines that may be hard for us to meet if corps has not been coordinating. they should be easy to meet if we're in the loop. take a quick look and see if you think it is ready to ship back to MN.

i think its only fair to put us on the hook to respond, and that also makes it clear that we do intend to comment.

Well, we discussed sending this to Mike N. That way another project manager would understand that it is in the Corps' best interest to make sure EPA is comfortable with milestone progress in Delta Conveyance permit processing. This is the kind of thing we do to avoid having to use the 404Q MOA. I didn't make timelines specific, that could be a mistake. Should I send it over to Mike N?

We could reallocate staff resources and address these issues after DWR has submitted an application to the Corps. This is usually when we are accused of coming to the party late.

I have two immediate independent reactions:

(1) Why do they think we (EPA) need to care at all about schedules imposed through an MOU to which we are not a party? And since we are not a party to any of this, and the Corps cannot make any representations that EPA concurs, what exactly is this all about?agreeve

(2) How would a formalized process like this interact with the 404(q) elevation MOU process, which I vaguely recall has its own timelines?

You don't need to answer either of these. It's just stuff I want to consider for a while.

Hi Karen and Tom,

There has been some interesting chatter over the e-waves. I have questions I would like answers to before July 31st. It would be good to discuss.
